DETAILED ACTION

Oath/Declaration

1. The oath or declaration is defective. A new oath or declaration in compliance with 37 CFR 1.67(a) identifying this application by application number and filing date is required. See MPEP §§ 602.01 and 602.02.

The oath or declaration is defective because:
The Declaration is not of sufficient clarity, as required under 37 CFR 1.52(a)(1)(v).
The text of some parts of the Declaration could not be recognized.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Art Unit: 1746

4. The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

5. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over GB 2,225,793 in view of Noguchi et al (US Patent NO 5,353,612), JP 08-318091 and Tingle (US 2003/0046789).

GB 2225793 teaches a washing machine with a filter and a filter cover provided in the cabinet of the machine. The cover of GD 2225793 comprises protrusions and hooks. See entire document, especially Fig. 1 and the related description.

GB 2225793 does not specifically teach three hooks and three protrusions (the document teaches two of each) and the constructions of the hooks as claimed.

However, It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide any number of hooks and protrusions in the cover of GB 2225793 to ensure a proper closure of the cover, since it has been held that mere duplication of the essential working parts of a device involves only routine skill in the art. St. Regis Paper Co. v. Bemis Co., 193 USPQ 8.

As to the specific construction and shape of the hooks and protrusions:

Noguchi et al (Fig. 13 a and the related description), JP 08-318091 (Figures 1, 4 and the related description) and Tingle (Fig. 2 and the related description) show that such hooks and protrusions were known to be used in the art of filter covers and filter covers in washing machines. It would have been obvious to an ordinary artisan at the time the invention was made to incorporate the hooks and protrusions of Noguchi et al, JP 08-318091 and Tingle in GB 2225793 for their conventional purpose with reasonable expectation of adequate results in order to provide reliable closure for the cover disclosed by the GB document and in order to use less expensive materials.

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. US 5660063 is cited to show the state of the prior art with respect to washing machines with filter covers.
